F048306      In re T. M., a Minor

The matter is remanded to the juvenile court for that court to direct the Agency to conduct an adequate inquiry followed by proper notification to the BIA and the tribes. After proper notice is given, if any tribe or the BIA comes forward and asserts that T.M. is an Indian child, the juvenile court's jurisdiction and subsequent disposition orders are deemed vacated for failure to comply with ICWA. If, after proper notice is given to the tribes and the BIA and the requisite time period (including any period of timely requested extension of time) has expired, no Indian tribe has come forward and identified T.M. as an Indian child or sought to intervene in these proceedings, the jurisdiction and subsequent orders shall remain in effect, resulting in affirmance of the judgment.
